

BAGB Members Win Awards

Pablo Saucedo Named Among Top Young Leaders

Pablo Saucedo, operations director at Sandcastle Group LLC of Marshfield, was one of 30 recipients nationwide to receive the first annual “30 Under 40 Awards,” a new program by the Building Systems Council that celebrates the talented members of the next generation of active system built leaders. The award building industries. They are part of the National Association of Home Builders.

Specific criteria for the award include professional growth and achievements, leadership skills, contributing to the success of business and organizations, the impact of the nominee’s efforts on the system built industry, industry/community development and affiliations tem built industry overall.”

Saucedo, 36, joined Sandcastle in 2002 as a part-time CAD designer for sunrooms and small remodeling projects. After mastering all aspects of this area, he became a production assistant and eventually production manager. He participated in the company’s entrée into system built construction, taking a lead role on this new product line. One of his most recent achievements involves modular applications of non-combustible commercial applications. In 2007, he took on the role of operations director, handling all feasibility, analysis, design and specifications, permitting and engineering, production and budgeting for all Sandcastle divisions and related projects.

He is a member of Sandcastle’s Management Board and is the founding member of the modular builder peer group 2006-2007. He is also the affordable housing coordinator for West Elmwood Housing Development Corp. in Providence, R.I. ■ was presented at International Builders Show in February.

In 2007, Saucedo took on the role of operations director.

An independent panel of judges that included representatives from Anderson Windows, Building Systems Magazine and Stone-Mills Log Homes evaluated candidates for the awards. They were presented Feb.13-16 at the 2008 International Builders’ Show in Orlando, Fla. The Building Systems Councils are a resource for the concrete, log, modular and panelized home and other noteworthy accomplishments or skills.

“We are thrilled that Pablo was chosen for this top award, which was designed to support emerging talent that will influence the future of housing,” said Francine Townsend, vice president of Sandcastle. “To be chosen for this elite group is a significant accomplishment and speaks to Pablo’s many contributions not only to our company, but also to the sys-

McNally Recognized as Leader in Systems Built Housing Industry

Kelly McNally, sales and marketing director, Bonded Builders Warranty Group, has been named one of the top 30 individuals talent that will influence the future of housing and bring wider recognition to 30 of the most promising people under the age of 40 working in the systems housing industry is composed of manufacturers and builders of model code complying modular, panelized, log and concrete homes and their suppliers.

McNally handles systems-built manufacturer accounts across the country and works with both systems and traditional site builders in the Northeast. She is a member of the Builders Association of Greater Boston, the Home Builders and Remodelers Associations of Maine, New Hampshire and Fairfield County. She is also active in the National Association of Home Builders’ Building Systems Councils. ■ under 40 years old in the systems built housing industry. She was also one of three in the group to be recognized with “special high honors of achievement.”

McNally handles systems-built manufacturer accounts across the country and works with both systems and traditional site builders in the Northeast.

The “30 Under 40” Award is designed to support new and emerging built industry. Nominees were judged on influence, entrepreneurship, success and visibility.

McNally received her “30 Under 40” award during the International Builders Show in Orlando, Fla. The systems built

Continued on page 18